THE LOST BEAUTY OR THE FATAL ERROR. A Spanish Novel. A New Edition, revised and enlarged, in one large duodecimo volume. Price, $1.60 in paper, or $2.00 in cloth.

We have on the authority of The Edinburgh Review, that the novel of this gifted authoress was "published at the expense of being tormented, that of the various kinds of novels, the comic and descriptive was the least repugnant to the old Spanish spirit, and that it was the author's desire to write a book which would be necessary for him to have a passionate attachment to the national manners and character, and a corresponding dislike to the foreign and foreigner." In the opinion of the Edinburgh Review, it is a real literary event. The author seems to have distinguished this work, and have substantially proclaimed the authorship to be the Spanish Walter Scott. Among the popular masters, the best, we believe, is the author of The Lost Beauty.
